Side effects are minimal, if any

The “n-AC” (NAC) piece is:

- Antioxidant
- Neuroprotective
- Contributes to the glutathione pathway for energy generation
- Anti-inflammatory
- NAC I use available at Amazon.com

The DHEA

- DHEA is a mild “anabolic” steroid-precursor that has been found (in my practice) to contribute to CONSERVATION of muscle mass in the aging or catabolic (cancer) pets. After a while, what DHEA does in terms of “increasing cellular metabolism” of proteins, lipids and energy production – generates “smoke” (free radicals) by-products which are relieved by NAC and Geranyl geraniol among their other benefits.
- DHEA has known / proven antineoplastic effects.

Geranyl geraniol

- Geranyl geraniol is a powerful antioxidant. As such, it has anti-inflammatory effects.
- This allows DHEA to work within the metabolism at meaningful doses without exhausting the patient's antioxidant systems.

These DHEA are all good. Note I've bought a lot of DHEA
